Dear uncle Tim,

May your name be whispered by the grasses of the timeless field.
I attended the Blues concert several days ago and am finally beginning to put together the pieces of the vision I experienced. It was the story of a religion of divine love, a church of metaphysical understanding complete with ritual worship and a holy sacrament. But the sacrament was abused and its gift of sight was lost to all but a handful of the faithful. Many years past before the masses were again ready for the spiritual evolution that awaits. Persecuted were those that maintained their beliefs, ridiculed were those that held high their faith.

Tell me about the Neo American Church, Uncle Tim. Maybe you can help me better understand what I've seen. It's rather confusing because of the distorted sense of then/now/when in which it was perceived.

Also there was the government's repression of the catalytic sacramental fire not though until after they had repressed freedom of the land and water even the air.

I love you Uncle Tim and could certainly use some of your guidance in this matter as it does include the future state of our species, thanks as always.
your friend,

Michael Adrian Schmit

P.S. Have you seen Grace? tell her the staff child, world bearer sends love.
